What we have been doing at nursery during May

BABY ROOM: Babies have been exploring lots of different activities from learning to cook to ice painting. Babies have taken part in making rice krispies cakes where they all took part in mixing the chocolate and pouring in the cakes to the cake holders. Babies enjoyed their creative science experiment of ice painting, where they explored colours textures and also explored their creativeness.

TODDLER ROOM: Toddler children have been taking part in painting with objects such as cars, they enjoyed driving the wheels along the paper making sounds and also exploring how the paints leave marks and mix colours. Toddlers have introduced a new story of the month "The very hungry caterpillar" where they have been creating their own caterpillar props for display, they have also implemented their new theme "Sensory play" exploring different textures of everyday objects around their room.

PRE SCHOOL ROOM: Preschool children have been taking part in lots of fun science experiments, they have created apple volcanos where they watched an eruption and listened to the fizzing sound that it made, we are planning to make Lava lamps next and also learn how rain comes through clouds through another experiment, keep your eyes peeled on Family for these amazing experiment's. Preschool children have also started to do french lessons as part of their morning registration once a week with Stephanie.

SCIENCE EXPERIMENTS AT NURSERY

Toddlers and preschool children have been exploring lots of different science activities at nursery, they have enjoyed watching apple explosions and listening to the sounds of fizzing that it makes, some children even noticed the smell that was produced from the apple cider vinegar. The pre-school are able to remember the names of the things we used to create our apple explosion. Another experiment we looked at and completed at nursery was a rain cloud, toddlers loved this activity and still after a few days of doing it they are talking about it. We used shaving foam, a small glass filled with water and blue food colouring for the rain drops. This experiment allowed the children to focus and watch closely as the drops of food colouring had to drop through the shaving foam into the water. Preschool and toddler enjoyed this activity so much and are excited to see what other experiments we can do. It's easy to do if you want to do at home all you need is:

- Shaving foam
- Small glass of water (Filled to almost the top)
- Blue food colouring

How to create:

- Fill the glass with water to almost the top
- Add a cloud of shaving foam on the top of the glass
- Add some drops of blue food colouring to the shaving foam
- Watch as the food colouring drops fall through the cloud
